Modern office environments like those at Dell Inc. are designed for collaboration, but open layouts can introduce unwanted background noise from meetings, equipment, and daily activity. Over time, this noise can affect concentration, communication, and overall employee comfort.

All Noise Control implemented the ANC-17 Acoustic Curtain system to help Dell manage sound while maintaining its sleek, modern workspace design. Using noise dampening curtains, the solution created defined quiet zones without making the space feel closed off.

The sound curtains reduced distractions through sound noise blocking drapes allowing teams to communicate more clearly and stay focused. The ANC-17 system provided Dell with a flexible, visually integrated noise control solution that supports productivity in a fast-paced corporate environment.
