Bank of Cleveland, maintaining speech privacy and a comfortable customer experience is a top priority. With open layouts and steady foot traffic throughout the day, background noise often carried into customer-facing areas, making confidential conversations more challenging and affecting overall comfort.

To address this, All Noise Control installed the ANC-17 soundproofing system using decorative sound proof curtains designed to blend seamlessly with the bank's interior design. These acoustic curtains served as a flexible sound isolation curtain solution, allowing the bank to improve privacy without introducing permanent walls or disrupting daily operations.

By incorporating noise reducing curtains, the system significantly reduced background noise and improved speech clarity. The result is a calmer, more professional atmosphere where customers feel more at ease and employees can communicate with confidence, supporting a better overall banking experience.
